Course information

Prerequisites

This class is open to master students of the University of St.Gallen.

Learning objectives

The Workshop and Lecture Series in Law and Economics allow students to deepen their knowledge in the field of Law and Economics. Students will be introduced to the latest academic research on Law and Economics. They will have the opportunity to engage in the academic discussions in this field and will be expected to actively participate in these discussions. The course intends to encourage students to critically assess academic research and produce their own research-based written work.

Content

The Workshop and Lecture Series in Law and Economics is jointly offered by the ETH Zurich and the Universities St. Gallen and Zurich. It is organized by Elliott Ash, Stefan Bechtold, Alexander Stremitzer, Désirée Klingler and Yoan Hermstrüwer. It provides an overview of current interdiscplinary research at the intersection of law and economics. Legal, economics, and psychology scholars give a lecture and/or present their current research. All speakers are internationally well-known experts from Europe, the U.S., and beyond.

The workshop and lecture series includes a mix of speakers who represent the wide range of current social science research methods applied to legal issues. In particular, theoretical models, empirical and experimental research as well as legal research methods are represented. It is offered each spring semester.

The papers presented will be made available on a rolling basis at:
https://lawecon.ethz.ch/teaching/lawecon/schedule.html. Participants are expected to have read the papers presented in advance.

Content

One written comment paper: Each student needs to write one comment paper on one paper posted or discussed during the workshop. You can choose the paper that you want to comment freely. The comment must be written in English and be approximately 2,000 words (4 pages) long (including footnotes). The idea is not to summarize the paper, but to critically comment on one of the issues the posted paper deals with or, if it is a working paper, to provide constructive criticism about points that deserve further analysis. Further instructions on how to write a comment paper you can find here: https://lawecon.ethz.ch/teaching/lawecon/credit-requirements.html. Comments will not be discussed during the workshop but students will have the opportunity to participate in the discussions following each presentation.

Comments must be submitted until 23:59 on the day before the presentation takes place. They should be sent per email to Prof. Dr. Désirée Klingler desiree.klingler@unisg.ch. Please submit your comment as a PDF and label the PDF and your comment paper with: your name, the title and author of the paper you are commenting, and the submission date.

Note: Once you find a paper that interests you, take the opportunity to comment it. Since the papers will be uploaded on a rolling basis, you will not know all the papers at the beginning of the course.

Active participation:

- Questions: Students need to send 3 written questions on three different posted papers in advance. These questions are meant to be asked during the seminar, if possible, and have to be sent to Prof. Dr. Désirée Klingler until 23:59 on the day before the presentation takes place.
- Attendance: Students are expected to attend at least 8 lectures and to engage actively in the course.
